RESPONSE TO EXAMINER'S REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

Dear Sir:

The Notice of allowance and fee(s) due in this case, dated September 7, 2004 included the Examiner's statement of reasons for allowance. The statement appears to accurately reflect the discussion between the Examiner and the undersigned attorney regarding the terms "including" and "encompassing" in the limitation "the electronics platform including/encompassing at lease one integrated circuit" of claim 55. It is submitted that the Examiner has given an unreasonably broad meaning to the term "including" in this limitation. In particular, the Examiner viewed a platform that was a component of a circuit as a an example of a "platform including a circuit. "Exminer took the position of broadly taking 'including' to mean the electrode (platform) need only comprise a portion of the circuit as a part of a whole circuit," reasons for allowance page 3. This definition would appear to mean that any component in an assembly "includes" the assembly and is thus believed to be beyond the reasonable meaning of the term "including." Because the term "including" is not believed to have the broad meaning attributed to it by the Examiner, it is submitted that the replacement of "including" by

"encompassing" does not narrow the scope of claim 55. Thus, claim 55 as amended is submitted to be at least as broad as it was prior to this amendment.
